Chesterlbrook Academy

Monthly Familly Newsletter February 2016

Dates to Remember:

Every Friday: Submit your Reading lists

2/9: Make a mask
2/12: Parent Date Night (for all enrolled and non-enrolled children)

2/15: President's Day School Closed
2/26: Last day to submit reading lists

2/26: Cat in the Hat Reading Circle

Remember

Our school is participating in a healthy, creative fundraiser with Art to Remember. Right now, our children are busy creating colorful, fun art and soon you will receive a personalized order form showcasing your son's or daughter's artwork.

- Over 30 keepsake products to choose from
- Many products are less than $$ 15$
- Safe, secure online ordering
- Satisfaction guaranteed
- Don't forget about your family and friends for gift giving occasions:

- Grandparents' Day
- Christmas
- Father's Day
- Birthdays
- Mother's Day
- Graduation

Personalized Opder forms

available february 29th

Financial Reminders:

Tuition Due dates/Fees:

Weekly tuition is due every Friday for the upcoming week. Fees are considered delinquent at 12:00 noon on the day following the due date (Monday). Late charge will be assessed in the amount of $$ 25$ for each week the full tuition that is not paid on time. If tuition and any other outstanding charges are not paid within seven days of the due date, attendance at the school is not permitted until the full past tuition and for the current period is paid.

Vacation Credits:

A vacation credit allows a family to take a week-long vacation without owing tuition. The credit may only be used in lieu of attendance and must be a whole calendar week, ie.
Monday-Friday
A family becomes eligible for their vacation credit after 6 months of enrollment. Two week advance notification in writing is required (ask the office for a Vacation Credit Form) or the request will be denied. In addition, each family will only receive one vacation credit per fiscal year (July 1 - June 30); all other weeks' tuition is due based on your enrolled schedule, regardless of your student's attendance. Finally, families using extended vacations or withdrawing for long periods of time forfeit current credits and must restart earning their vacation credits upon returning.

Extended Vacations:

If a family choses to withdraw their student while away on an extended vacation (2 weeks or more), the following rules apply:

1. We require a 4 week notice. We will not be able to accommodate your withdrawal until the 4 week mark.
2. A new registration fee is due before your last day to re-register your student upon your return.
3. We cannot pro-rate partial weeks if you withdraw mid-week or return mid-week, school tuition is billed based on the schedule you are enrolled for.
4. Your tenure with us is forfeit and for all policy purposes, your "first day" will be counted as your return date. Thus, you will have to wait 6 months from your return date to be eligible for a vacation credit.

Helping Your Preschooler Develop Positive Friendship Skills

Are you puzzled by some of your child's social behaviors? Have you noticed that your toddler doesn't interact with other children very often? Does your three-year-old get frustrated when a classmate won't play with him? Will your four-year-old only play with her best friend?

These are all normal social behaviors for preschoolers. Learning how to develop friendships is a lifelong process. Children's social behaviors evolve from smiling and cooing at others, to engaging in parallel play, to eventually forming friendships and playing together.

Below are ways we help develop friendships in the classroom, as well as ideas for you and your child to do at home.

INFANTS:

In the classroom: Before they can communicate verbally, infants build connections by smiling, cooing and crying. By two months old, they might turn toward other infants, and by twelve months, they begin to imitate their peers. Teachers help facilitate this relationship by sitting infants near each other during activities such as story time and tummy time.

At home: Even though infants don't really play with one another, they still benefit from "play dates" with other infants. Sit your infant face-to-face with another infant or in close proximity to an older sibling, and provide each child separate toys. Note when your infant watches the other child and what captures his attention.

Recommended reading: Friends by Helen Oxenbury and Let's Play by Leo Lionni

TODDLERS (ages 1-2):

In the classroom: Many young children tend to engage in "parallel play." They play near other children, but each child is doing something different. This is a natural phase of development. As children get older, they begin to enjoy more shared activities with their peers. For example, they might enjoy splashing their hands at the water table with others, looking at books while sitting close to a friend, and dancing to music with their classmates.

At home: Invite another parent and child to your home for a play date. Blocks, balls, dress up clothes and toy kitchen sets are great toys for children at this age. Don't force them to play with each other. Instead, let the children decide on the level of interaction.

Recommended reading: Do You Want to be My Friend? by Eric Carle and I Can Share by Karen Katz

BEGINNERS (ages 2-3):

In the classroom: In the Beginner classroom, teachers refer to classmates as "friends." Students learn about personal space and begin to practice good manners by saying please and thank you.

At home: Model positive behaviors while playing with your child. Say "I'm going to roll the ball to you. Can you please roll the ball back to me?" Afterward, say "Thank you. You are being a good friend."

Recommended reading: How Do Dinosaurs Play with Their Friends? by Jane Yolen and Let's be Friends by P. K. Hallinan

INTERMEDIATES (ages 3-4):

In the classroom: Between ages three and four, children attempt to understand social situations, but often do so from an egocentric point of view. They need adult guidance to help them navigate peer conflict and model appropriate friendship-making behaviors. Small group activities help children learn how to follow directions, take turns and develop friendships.

At home: Ask your child about their friends and what games they played together. If he says, "Andrew didn't play with me today. He's mean," you could say, "Andrew may have wanted to play a different game today. Maybe you can play together tomorrow. What does Andrew like to play?"

Recommended reading: Just My Friend and Me by Mercer Mayer and Llama Llama Time to Share by Anna Dewdney

PRE-K/PRE-K2 (ages 4-5)

In the classroom: Friendship in Pre-K and Pre-K2 is usually reciprocal and deliberate as children become more skilled in social interactions and look for peers with shared interests. Our character education program reinforces friendship making skills using songs, games, books and brain-builder activities to nurture skills such as collaboration, understanding feelings and resolving conflicts.

At home: Bring your child to events that include multiple children, such as birthday parties, or encourage your child to play a board game that requires multiple players. Ask him to introduce himself to the other children, or encourage him to play the game taking turns. If you notice frustration from your child, say, "In order to play the game, we all have to play together."

Recommended reading: Frog and Toad are Friends by Arnold Lobel and A Splendid Friend, Indeed by Suzanne Bloom

Don't be concerned about the number of friends your child has, as it is more about quality than quantity. Each child will develop friendships at his own pace. What matters most is the development of social skills such as collaboration and problem-solving, which will help him transition into elementary school and beyond.

