

Dear Parents,

Well, Fall is in full swing and we are now preparing for Thanksgiving. This year our kiddos will be treating us to a Thanksgiving program and singing some beautiful songs. Additionally, we will be having our Scholastic Book Fair, Pet Day, and our first set of Progress Reports will be going home.

Personally, I want to thank all of those that sent me well wishes during my time off having surgery. It feels so good to be back at school and enjoying the beautiful smiling faces of our little ones.

Families, we are hard at work to provide your child with a nurturing and challenging environment in which they learn through active play. Additionally, we want to service our parents as well; that is why we are introducing our Parent Talk Series. Beginning in December we will offer informative 'talks' led by professionals and experts in their field. We will cover a variety of different topics as it pertains to raising children. The 'talks' will be offered monthly to all of our parents and the community free of charge. If you would like to offer your expertise, we would greatly appreciate it and would love to speak with you.

I thank you for your support and appreciate you entrusting us with your child's education.

Respectfully,

J.B. Arbelo-Bean, Principal

STEAM LAB

Parents, did you know that Chesterbrook Pembroke Pines is the ONLY Chesterbrook to have a full-functioning Steam Lab with a dedicated teacher? That is SPECIAL!!! This means our kids are given yet another opportunity to explore, experiment, and discover.

Why is this so valuable? STEAM learning is extremely important in developing the whole child. The five disciplines of STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Math) are used in everyday activities. They aid in promoting problem solving, creative and analytical thinking. When young children have the opportunity to investigate the world around them, they learn and experiment with new STEAM skills and theories. Research shows there is a positive relationship between early STEAM experiences and future success in school.
