Hello CBA Families,

As promised, we are reaching out to update you on our plans for fall. I need to emphasize that although we are becoming weary of hearing that plans are subject to change, that is indeed still the case for any plans for fall. We would love to have our plans finalized, but it is just not possible at this time.

You might have noticed that the WCASD, and many other districts, have put out their “most likely” plans for fall. This has prompted some questions about CBA's plans.

Let me try to provide some clarification on some common questions we have received recently.

1. We do not follow the WCASD school district for anything. This includes closings for weather, academic calendar, and school reopening plans.
2. As it relates to the current climate, we take our guidance from Spring Education, CDC, Chester County Health Department and the PA Department of Education. The PA Department of Education released updated guidance yesterday. With this new guidance, every school has had to revisit their plans for fall. We are reviewing and adjusting our plans based upon this new
